God and Time Gregory E. Ganssle, David M. Woodruff, 2001-12-20 Throughout the history of philosophical theology scholars have reflected on the relationship between God and time In the Western religious tradition God has been thought to be eternal in the sense that God is outside time But many thinkers today hold that while God is everlasting in that there was no beginning to God's existence nor will he ever cease existing God exists within Time In God and Time Gregory E Ganssle and David Woodruff have brought together 12 previously unpublished essays from leading philosophers on God's relation to time Including work from today's most prominent thinkers in this fascinating field God and Time represents the current state of the discussion between those who believe God to be atemporal experiencing everything in the eternal now and those who believe God to be temporal experiencing events sequentially somewhat as we do This collection highlights such issues as how the nature of time is relevant to the question of whether God is temporal and how God's other attributes are compatible with his mode of temporal being. By focusing on the metaphysical aspects of time and temporal existence, God and Time makes a unique contribution to the current resurgence of interest in philosophical theology in the analytic tradition.

The Sunday-school World, 1892 The Musical Times, 1908 Time and Eternity William Lane Craig, 2001-03-01 This remarkable work offers an analytical exploration of the nature of divine eternity and God's relationship to time.

The Girl's Own Annual, 1899 The Catechism Explained Francis Spirago, 1899 This Catechism is divided into three parts. The first part treats of faith, the second of morals, the third of the means of grace. In the first part Our Lord appears in His character of Teacher, in the second in His character of King, and in the third in His character of High Priest. And since this Catechism proposes as its primary object to answer the question for what purpose are we here upon earth, thereby emphasizing and giving prominence to man's high calling and destiny, it is especially suited to the present day when the pursuit of material interests, self-indulgence, and pleasure engrosses the attention of so many. This Catechism is in fact nothing more nor less than an abstract of Our Lord's teaching and may be called a guide book for the Christian on the road to heaven. Preface

Donahoe's Magazine, 1883

God and Time Gregory E. Ganssle, 2025-10-16 The eternal God has created the universe. And that universe is time-bound. How can we best understand God's relationship with our time-bound universe? For example, does God experience each moment of time in succession, or are all times present to God? How we think of God and time has implications for our understanding of the nature of time, the creation of the universe, God's knowledge of the future, God's interaction with his creation, and the fullness of God's life. In this Spectrum Multiview volume, four notable philosophers skillfully take on this difficult topic, all writing from within a Christian framework yet contending for different views. Paul Helm argues that divine eternity should be construed as a state of absolute timelessness. Alan G. Padgett maintains that God's eternity is more plausibly to be understood as relative timelessness. William Lane Craig presents a hybrid view that combines timelessness with omnitemporality. And Nicholas Wolterstorff advocates a doctrine of unqualified divine temporality. Each essay is followed by responses from the other three contributors and a final counter-response from the original essayist, making for a lively exchange of ideas. Editor Gregory E. Ganssle provides a helpful introduction to the debate and its significance. Together these five scholars conduct readers on a stimulating and mind stretching journey into one of the most controversial and challenging areas of theology today Spectrum Multiview Books offer a range of viewpoints on contested topics within Christianity giving contributors the opportunity to present their position and also respond to others in this dynamic publishing format
