

Formal and Informal Speech

I match the sentence using an active, informal voice to those using a passive, formal voice.

I like carrots. It's the best vegetable.	The swimming pool isn't anything like a hot air balloon.
We should want to go to the swimming pool because that's better swimming.	Swimming is good and there's nothing else.
It's a mistake to swim!	Swimming is Lily's preferred subject.
Lily thinks it's better to have her hair.	Swimming is the best sport, it's very enjoyable.
That says nothing the group (swimming is boring).	Swimming is a sport that's very good at.

I match the following sentences. They are written in an active, informal voice. Match the sentence using a passive voice as they are more suitable for a formal writing.

- "I want that book, it's boring"
- "I want that cake"
- "He's obviously going to see the team"
- "This is always the best one (used for the team) just because that's the best"
- "I want a dog as they are so adorable"
- "They're going to be married (I see him on the street and papers)"
- "Why is going to see a girl?"

Match

He likes that that can be boring

They are very

It is used to come from the best

It is the subject

Swimming with Lily

It is not used in a context

It is important in fact

He is using it, explain

Formal and Informal Speech

The way we speak to others depends on many factors. You must consider:

Who you are speaking with and how well you know them.

Where the conversation is taking place - is it a formal setting or an informal setting?

Different cultures often have different terms or phrases that are used, depending on the context.

In conversations, we can phrase things in a direct, active way, or in an indirect, passive way.

Active, Informal Voice

When speaking actively, we often start with I. Our speech is personal and is used to voice our opinion or needs. This is often used when speaking informally with people we know well.

Example:	I kicked the football as hard as I could but it smacked the window.
	Starts with I, so the speaker is talking to friends and family.
