Integrated Pest Management

Rajinder Peshin, Ashok K. Dhawan, 2009-03-10 Integrated Pest Management Dissemination and Impact Volume 2 is a sequel to Integrated Pest Management Innovation Development Process Volume 1 The book focuses on the IPM systems in the developed countries of North America Europe and Australia and the developing countries of Asia Latin America and Africa One of the major impediments in the dissemination and adoption of the IPM innovation is the complexity of the technology and reaching the vast population of farmers especially in the developing countries The IPM innovation development process is incomplete without the diffusion and adoption of IPM methods by the end users and through its consequences In spite of all the efforts in the developed and developing countries the adoption of IPM is still low with few exceptions The book covers the underlying concepts and methodologies of the diffusion of innovation theory and the program evaluation and reviews the progress and impact of IPM programs implemented in the industrialized the green revolution and the subsistence agricultural systems of the world Forty four experts from entomology plant pathology environmental science agronomy anthropology economics and extension education from Africa Asia Australia Europe North America and South America have discussed impact of IPM with an interdisciplinary perspective Each one of the experts is an authority in his or her field of expertise The researchers farmers education supporting policies of the governments and market forces are the elements of the IPM innovation system to achieve wider adoption of IPM strategy in agriculture

Integrated Pest Management Edward B. Radcliffe, William D. Hutchison, Rafael E. Cancelado, 2009 This textbook presents theory and concepts in integrated pest management complemented by two award winning websites covering more practical aspects

Areawide Pest Management Opende Koul, Gerrit W. Cuperus, Norman Elliott, 2008 This book aims 1 to lay out the historical underpinnings of the areawide pest including weeds plant and stored grain insect pests management AWPM and to highlight current activity in the field 2 to delve into concepts that have direct impact on the successful implementation of AWPM which include i biological and ecological concepts important for understanding the dynamics of populations in spatially heterogeneous environments ii the critical role of inter agency and multidisciplinary interactions in the development and implementation of AWPM programmes which are often complex inter agency and intergovernmental endeavours iii the roles of modelling meteorology and databases in AWPM programmes which by their nature are information intensive and iv the importance of economic and sociological evaluation in successful AWPM implementation and 3 to compile recent case examples of pest management programmes that have used the AWPM approach A survey is presented on a wide variety of programmes developed for protecting agricultural and natural resource systems and which use a wide range of pest management tactics

Guideline to promote integrated pest management through Farmer Field Schools in smallholder agriculture in Ethiopia Mulatu, B. , 2024-12-09 Plant protection in Ethiopia formally began in the 1940s with focus on promoting use of pesticides To this date the pest control measure with wider acceptance has been the use of second generation synthetic organic pesticides The most used are the highly hazardous pesticides which have the reputation of posing serious risk to health and the environment In Ethiopia the total area under crops production is well over 13 million hectares On the other hand the quantities of pesticides available every year have not been enough even to protect crops grown in 1 million hectares Despite this there has been rampant misuse of pesticides affecting health and the environment Moreover the attainable yield remained low with substantial yield losses incurred every year due to pest damage This indicates clearly that the increase in yield gain remained low Thus promoting IPM through FFS was thought to be the means for growing healthy crops with high yield sustainably manage economic pests reduce pesticide use and protect health and the environment It was based on this that FAO promoted IPM through the FFS approach and achieved the following outputs enhanced human and institutional capacity for promoting IPM in smallholder fields established and capacitated IPM FFS groups who successfully reduced economic damage by pests generated scalable outputs conducted experience sharing events on the outputs and reached more smallholder farmers Therefore using the scaled out outputs as empirical data this guideline to promote IPM through FFS in the smallholders farmers was developed to create wider awareness and further implementation

The Economics of Integrated Pest Management of Insects

David W Onstad, Philip Crain, 2019-09-02 The book begins by establishing an economic framework upon which to apply the principles of IPM Then it looks at the entomological applications of economics specifically economic analyses concerning chemical biological cultural and genetic control tactics as well as host plant resistance and the cost of sampling Lastly it evaluates whether the control provided by a traditional IPM system is sufficient or if changes to the system design would yield greater benefits

Integrated Pest Management of Tropical Vegetable Crops Rangaswamy Muniappan, E. A.

Heinrichs, 2016-11-23 It is an edited book with chapters written by multi disciplinary specialists in their specific subject areas It covers development of IPM components and packaging them for individual vegetable crops specifically targeted to tropical countries Scientific background for IPM components or tactics will be included There will be case studies of IPM packages developed and implemented in different countries The concept of IPM has been in existence for the past six decades however a practical holistic program has not been developed and implemented for vegetable crops in the developing countries

Currently the IPM adoption rate in the tropics is minimal and there is a need for implementation of IPM technologies that are environmentally safe economical and socially acceptable We believe that adoption and implementation of IPM provided in this book will lead to significant reduction in crop losses and mitigate adverse impacts of pesticide use in the tropics This book is an outcome 20 years of research development and implementation of the IPM CRSP a project supported by USAID and administered by Virginia Tech in several developing countries along the tropical belt in Africa Asia Latin America and the Caribbean

Global Report International Assessment of Agricultural Knowledge, Science, and Technology for Development (Project), 2009 In addition to assessing existing conditions and knowledge the IAASTD uses a simple set of model projections to look at the future based on knowledge from past events and existing trends such as population growth rural urban food and poverty dynamics loss of agricultural land water availability and climate change effects This set of volumes comprises the findings of the IAASTD It consists of a Global Report a brief Synthesis Report and 5 subglobal reports Taken as a whole the IAASTD reports are an indispensable reference for anyone working in the field of agriculture and rural development whether at the level of basic research policy or practice
