Measurement and Modeling of Silicon Heterostructure Devices John D. Cressler, 2018-10-03 When you see a nicely presented set of data the natural response is How did they do that what tricks did they use and how can I do that for myself Alas usually you must simply keep wondering since such tricks of the trade are usually held close to the vest and rarely divulged Shamefully ignored in the technical literature measurement and modeling of high speed semiconductor devices is a fine art Robust measuring and modeling at the levels of performance found in modern SiGe devices requires extreme dexterity in the laboratory to obtain reliable data and then a valid model to fit that data Drawn from the comprehensive and well reviewed Silicon Heterostructure Handbook this volume focuses on measurement and modeling of high speed silicon heterostructure devices The chapter authors provide experience based tricks of the trade and the subtle nuances of measuring and modeling advanced devices making this an important reference for the semiconductor industry It includes easy to reference appendices covering topics such as the properties of silicon and germanium the generalized Moll Ross relations the integral charge control model and sample SiGe HBT compact model parameters Fishery Bulletin ,1971

Recording Structures of Mammals Galina A. Klevezal, 2017-10-19 This text focuses on the principles and methods of using growth layers formed in teeth and bones of mammals to make a judgement on essential traits of the animal s life history In nearly all mammalian species including man the age of individuals can be determined from the number of growth layers and at least in some of them it is possible to estimate the season of an animal s birth and death age of sexual maturation periodicity of reproduction certain feeding habits and other aspects of the individual s biology It is also possible from tooth enamel analysis to assess doses of radiation accumulated by animals and human beings during their lifetime This book is intended for zoologists wild game biologists and zoo archaeologists but some of the sections could also be of interest for anthropologists radioecologists and conservation biologists Proceedings of the National Silviculture Workshop ,1989

Bulletin of the Bureau of Fisheries ,1931 NOAA Technical Report NMFS. ,1983 Bulletin of the United States Bureau of Fisheries ,1931 Electronic Properties of Multilayers and Low-Dimensional Semiconductor Structures J.M. Chamberlain, L. Eaves, J.C. Portal, 2012-12-06 This Advanced Study Institute on the Electronic Properties of Multilayers and Low Dimensional Semiconductor Structures focussed on several of the most active areas in modern semiconductor physics These included resonant tunnelling and superlattice phenomena and the topics of ballistic transport quantised conductance and anomalous magnetoresistance effects in laterally gated two dimensional electron systems Although the main emphasis was on fundamental physics a series of supporting lectures described the underlying technology Molecular Beam Epitaxy Metallo Organic Chemical Vapour Deposition Electron Beam Lithography and other advanced processing technologies Actual and potential applications of low dimensional structures in optoelectronic and high frequency devices were also discussed The ASI took the form of a series of lectures of about fifty minutes duration which were given by senior researchers from a wide range of countries Most of the lectures are recorded in these Proceedings The younger members of the Institute made the predominant contribution to the discussion sessions following each lecture and in addition provided most of the fifty five papers that were presented in two lively poster sessions The ASI emphasised the impressive way in which this research field has developed through the fruitful interaction of theory experiment and semiconductor device technology Many of the talks demonstrated both the effectiveness and limitations of semiclassical concepts in describing the quantum phenomena exhibited by electrons in low dimensional structures
