Great River Review Number 32 Springsummer 2000:

The Great Medicine Road, Part 2 Will Bagley, 2015-10 During the early weeks of 1848 as U S congressmen debated the territorial status of California a Swiss immigrant and an itinerant millwright forever altered the future state s fate Building a sawmill for Johann August Sutter James Wilson Marshall struck gold The rest may be history but much of the story of what happened in the following year is told not in history books but in the letters diaries journals and other written recollections of those whom the California gold rush drew west In this second installment in the projected four part collection The Great Medicine Road Narratives of the Oregon California and Mormon Trails the hardy souls who made the arduous trip tell their stories in their own words Seven individuals tales bring to life a long ago year that enriched some impoverished others and forever changed the face of North America Responding to often misleading promotional literature adventurers made their way west via different routes Following the Carson River through the Sierra Nevada or taking the Lassen Route to the Sacramento Valley they passed through the Mormon Zion of Great Salt Lake City and traded with and often displaced Native Americans long familiar with the trails Their accounts detail these encounters as well as the gritty realities of everyday life on the overland trails They narrate events describe the vast and diverse landscapes they pass through and document a journey as strange and new to them as it is to many readers today Through these travelers diaries and memoirs readers can relive a critical moment in the remaking of the West and appreciate what a difference one year can make in the life of a nation

The Great Medicine Road, Part 3 Michael L. Tate, 2017-09-21 In the years after the discovery of gold in California thousands of fortune seekers made their way west joining the greatest mass migration in American history The gold fields were only one destination as emigrants pushed across the Great Plains Great Basin and Oregon Territory in unprecedented numbers following the Oregon California and Mormon Trails to the verdant Willamette Valley or Mormon settlements in the Salt Lake Valley Seeing the Elephant they often called the journey referring to the wondrous sights and endless adventures met along the way The firsthand accounts of those who made the trip between 1850 and 1855 that are collected in this third volume in a four part series speak of wonders and adventures but also of disaster and deprivation Traversing the ever changing landscape these pioneers braved flooded rivers endured cholera and hunger and had encounters with Indians that were often friendly and sometimes troubled Rich in detail and diverse in the experiences they relate these letters diary excerpts recollections and reports capture the voices of women and men of all ages and circumstances hailing from states far and wide and heading west in hope and desperation Their words allow us to see the grit and glory of the American West as it once appeared to those who witnessed its transformation Michael L Tate begins the volume with an introduction to this middle phase of the trails history A headnote and annotations for each document sketch the author s background and reasons for undertaking the trip and correct and clarify information in the original manuscript The extensive bibliography identifies sources and suggests further reading

Karl,2017-03-02 In The Magic of Concepts Rebecca E Karl interrogates the economic as concept and practice as it was construed historically in China in the 1930s and again in the 1980s and 1990s Separated by the Chinese Revolution and Mao s socialist experiments each era witnessed urgent discussions about how to think about economic concepts derived from capitalism in modern China Both eras were highly cosmopolitan and each faced its own global crisis in economic and historical philosophy in the 1930s capitalism s failures suggested that socialism offered a plausible solution while the abandonment of socialism five decades later provoked a rethinking of the relationship between history and the economic as social practice Interweaving a critical historiography of modern China with the work of the Marxist trained economist Wang Yanan Karl shows how magical concepts based on dehistoricized Eurocentric and capitalist conceptions of historical activity that purport to exist outside lived experiences have erased much of the critical import of China s twentieth century history In this volume Karl retrieves the economic to argue for a more nuanced and critical account of twentieth century Chinese and global historical practice Index de Périodiques Canadiens ,2002 Index to Jewish Periodicals ,2002 An author and subject index to selected and American Anglo Jewish journals of general and scholarly interests
