Urban- towns and cities, world is now dominated by towns and cities

Rural- small villages and countryside.

- Predicted to increase to 80 million new city (urban) dwellers per year.
- Most living in cities in LEDCs
- 21st century is first in which more people live in urban areas than rural.
- In 1880, 5% of people lived in urban areas but in 2017 this had topped 55%

When interpreting graphs: talk about all things in key, start, change, predict. If there are lots of examples pick 3

Percentage urban: 0-25% Ethiopia, 25-50% Madagascar, South Africa 50-75%, Australia 75-100%.

Urban land use

Urban areas have areas of specialised land use e.g. shops or housing or industry or recreation. Some have mixed land use so the settlement function varies. In 1924 Ed Burgess drew an urban model of Chicago. He thought as towns developed they grew outwards so the buildings got newer the further from the centre you are. Housing zones were based on age of house and wealth of inhabitants. Hoyt developed an alternative to show how land use varies in other cities.

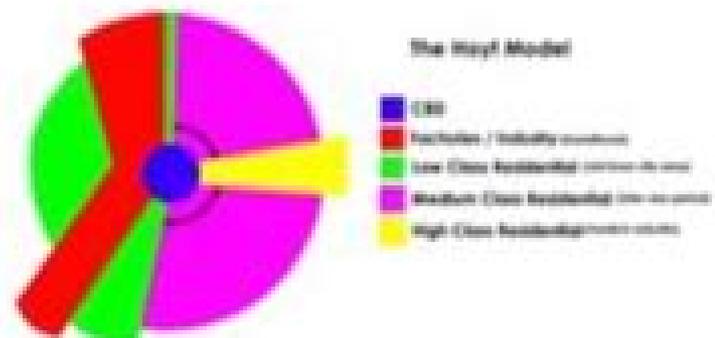

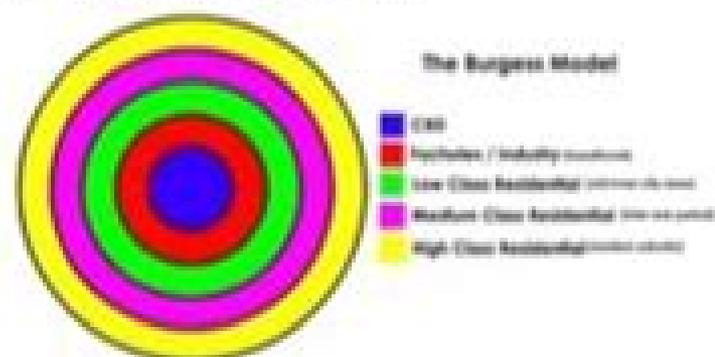

Settlement- a place where people live which provides services, places of employment and entertainment

Land use zones- areas of settlement that share the same functions- such as housing, industrial or commercial.

Settlement function- the purpose or role of part of a settlement. For example- to provide housing or employment.

CBD (central business district)- the part of a settlement which is dominated by shops and offices, often has tall buildings and is usually close to the centre. Its two main functions are commercial and business activity.

- Core of city with shops, offices, places of entertainment, banks and government offices
