George Pavlich, Matthew P. Unger

Genocide Machine In Canada:

The Genocide Machine in Canada Robert Davis, Mark Zannis, 1973 The authors claim and support with quoted statements that Canada is committing an act of genocide against the native peoples of the north in the process of developing the north

The Genocide Machine in Canada Robert Davis, Mark Zannis, 1973      Cultural Genocide Jeffrey Bachman, 2019-05-24
This book explores concepts of Cultural genocide its definitions place in international law the systems and methods that contribute to its manifestations and its occurrences Through a systematic approach and comprehensive analysis international and interdisciplinary contributors from the fields of genocide studies legal studies criminology sociology archaeology human rights colonial studies and anthropology examine the legal structural and political issues associated with cultural genocide This includes a series of geographically representative case studies from the USA Brazil Australia West Papua Iraq Palestine Iran and Canada This volume is unique in its interdisciplinarity regional coverage and the various methods of cultural genocide represented and will be of interest to scholars of genocide studies cultural studies and human rights international law international relations indigenous studies anthropology and history      Critical Criminology in Canada Aaron Doyle, 2011-01-01 This book presents the work of a new generation of critical criminologists who explore the geographical institutional and political contexts of the discipline in Canada Breaking away from mainstream criminology and law and order discourses the authors offer a spectrum of theoretical approaches to criminal justice from governmentality to feminist criminology from critical realism to anarchism and they propose novel approaches to topics ranging from genocide to white collar crime By posing crucial questions and attempting to define what criminology should be this book will shape debates about crime policing and punishment for years to come      Entryways to Criminal Justice George Pavlich, Matthew P. Unger, 2019-02-15 How do societies decide whom to criminalize What does it mean to accuse someone of being an offender Entryways to Criminal Justice analyzes the thresholds that distinguish law abiding individuals from those who may be criminalized Contributors to the volume adopt social historical cultural and political perspectives to explore the accusatory process that place persons in contact with the law Emphasizing the gateways to criminal justice truth telling and overcriminalization the authors provide important insights into often overlooked practices that admit persons to criminal justice It is essential reading for scholars students and policy makers in the fields of socio legal studies sociology criminology law and society and post colonial studies Contributors Dale A Ballucci Martin A French Aaron Henry Bryan R Hogeveen Dawn Moore George Pavlich Marcus A Sibley Rashmee Singh Amy Swiffen Matthew P Unger Elise Wohlbold Andrew Woolford      Almost A Born Loser! Annis Gregory Aleck, 2011-05-09 Canada also tried to exterminate the Indians just like the USA but used subtle methods like diseases starvation Residential Schools and oppression Then when we tried to do something for ourselves we were held back by the Govt and many Canadians wouldn't hire us or didn't treat us very well when we got hired Canada kept the truth well hidden by not exposing the truth or distorting stories so much that when they were exposing what happened there was very little if any truth to what they're saying. My story will expose some of these issues and how we had to struggle against overwhelming odds to do something with our lives but still weren't able to work to our full potential.

Indian Claims in Canada Canada. Indian Rights Commission. Research Resource Centre, 1979. Includes English and French publications

Red Skin, White Masks Glen Sean Coulthard, 2014-08-15 WINNER OF Frantz Fanon Outstanding Book from the Caribbean Philosophical Association Canadian Political Science Association's C. B. MacPherson Prize Studies in Political Economy Book Prize. Over the past forty years, recognition has become the dominant mode of negotiation and decolonization between the nation state and Indigenous nations in North America. The term recognition shapes debates over Indigenous cultural distinctiveness, Indigenous rights to land and self-government, and Indigenous peoples' right to benefit from the development of their lands and resources. In a work of critically engaged political theory, Glen Sean Coulthard challenges recognition as a method of organizing difference and identity in liberal politics, questioning the assumption that contemporary difference and past histories of destructive colonialism between the state and Indigenous peoples can be reconciled through a process of acknowledgment. Beyond this, Coulthard examines an alternative politics one that seeks to revalue, reconstruct, and redeploy Indigenous cultural practices based on self-recognition rather than on seeking appreciation from the very agents of colonialism. Coulthard demonstrates how a place-based modification of Karl Marx's theory of primitive accumulation throws light on Indigenous state relations in settler colonial contexts and how Frantz Fanon's critique of colonial recognition shows that this relationship reproduces itself over time. This framework strengthens his exploration of the ways that the politics of recognition has come to serve the interests of settler colonial power. In addressing the core tenets of Indigenous resistance movements like Red Power and Idle No More, Coulthard offers fresh insights into the politics of active decolonization.

A Sociology of Crime Stephen Hester, Peter Eglin, 2017-05-15. A Sociology of Crime has an outstanding reputation for its distinctive and systematic contribution to the criminological literature. Through detailed examples and analysis, it shows how crime is a product of processes of criminalisation constituted through the interactional and organizational use of language. In this welcome second edition, the book reviews and evaluates the current state of criminological theory from this grammatical perspective. It maintains and develops its critical and subversive stance but greatly widens its theoretical range, including dedicated chapters on gender, race, class, and the post-colonial, including postcolonialism. It now also provides questions, exercises, and further readings alongside its detailed analysis of a set of international examples, both classical and contemporary.

Names, Numbers, and Northern Policy Valerie Alia, 1994. Names are the cornerstones of cultures. They identify individuals, represent life, express and embody power. When power is unequal and people are colonized at one level or another, naming is manipulated from the outside. In the Canadian North, the most blatant example of this manipulation is the long history of interference by visitors with the ways to Inuit named themselves and their land This book is a concise history of government sponsored interference with Inuit identity Small Press Record of Books in Print Len Fulton,1980 Canadian Selection Alvan Bregman,Ontario.
