

The dramatic, cantilevered roof is the defining architectural element of the house, designed by Frank Israel. The house is a modern interpretation of the California ranch house, featuring a mix of materials and a strong sense of place. The cantilevered roof is a key feature, supported by a thick, tapered column. The house is set on a grassy hillside, and the interior is visible through large glass windows and doors. The sky is a mix of purple and blue, suggesting dusk or dawn.
